

There's a dream – by Carmel Bracken RSM

There's a dream in my soul that wants to live
A dream of oneness with all that is
A dream of a love that can heal a wounded world
Can you dream this dream with me?

It will take you to places that are torn
Broken apart by war
Places filled with pain and hopes that seem lost
Where colour is but a memory

Can you trust that you'll never be alone
That there is a pattern to it all
That we are evolving into a better way
And each one has a role they must play.

Can you give of the best of who you are Unfolding with the mystery of it all
Trusting that our earth will soon begin to heal
When all of us awake to who we are.

There's a dream.
